

NEW BATTLE LINE SEVENTY MILES LONG

Front Grows to Nearly Twice The Original Size In Nine Days

ENEMY OCCUPIES IRREGULAR TRIANGLE

ermans Advance Beyond
Point Occupied Two Years Ago In Places

London, March 29.—The battle front of the great German drive has grown to nearly twice its original size as the combat enters its ninth day. The offensive opened on comparatively a straight front, extending from Arras southward and slightly westward to LaFere, a distance of about 50 miles.

The area comprised in the enemy advance now consists of an irregular triangle, with Arras at its northern point. Montdidier at its southwestern point and the southern edge of the Gobain forest at its southeastern point. Each of its sides are roughly 70 miles long, in an air line, while the base is 35 miles across.

In the original battle line the fight has extended northward from Arras to Arras, a distance of about 70 miles; and southward from LaFere to St. Gobain forest, a distance of about seven miles.

But all sides of this huge triangle are extremely irregular, especially the western side. Field Marshal Haig in his night communique, described the fighting from "south of the Somme" to northeast of Arras as a 50-mile front. The French and British lines apparently converge at Warlens, about ten miles south of the Somme. This includes slightly more than half of the present battle front. From Haig's statement it would appear, then, that the entire west front is between 90 and 100 miles.

At several points, notably in the region of Albert and Montdidier the Germans have advanced beyond the point where their retreat began in 1916. The farthest German penetration is at Montdidier which presents an advance thirty-seven miles west and south from St. Quentin.

"South of the Somme to the north of Arras, on a 50-mile front, there was hard fighting Thursday, Haig's night statement said.

"North of the Scarpe, the enemy attacked in great strength this morning. South of the Somme there were powerful enemy attacks. East of Arras the enemy forced our outpost line in hard fighting and the combat continued all day in our battle positions. The enemy's assaults were repulsed with heavy losses.

"South of the Scarpe there was fierce fighting around Bozelles, Moyenneville, Abbeville, Buquoy and Aizennes. We beat off determined assaults.

"At Dernancourt the enemy was repulsed on a second time and lost many men in killed and prisoners.

"Arrillers, Vrely, Hamel and different localities changed hands. Our positions were substantially maintained.

The Berlin night statement said:

"There were engagements along the Scarpe and Aisne. Between the Somme and the Aisne strongly defended villages were taken.

"The Paris night communique said: "The battle continues violently. The enemy losses are extremely heavy. We retired in an orderly manner west of Montdidier."

ENORMOUS WAGE INCREASE IS RECOMMENDED

Raise For Railroad Workers Will Total Nearly Quarter Billion Dollars

PROPOSAL MADE BY WAGE COMMISSION

Railroad Unions Promised Satisfactory Agreements For War Support

Washington, March 29.—Wage increases totalling more than a quarter of a billion dollars annually will soon be recommended for railroad workers by the railway wage commission.

The general average increase for those awarded the boost will be about $200 a year, it is understood. Some employees are expected to receive no increase at all, recent advances being considered sufficient to meet the increased living cost.

The wage commission expects to have its recommendations in the hands of Director-General McAdoo by the last of next week but a final decision is not expected before May.

While not officially confirmed, it is stated by those in a position to know that all increases will be retroactive to January 1.

It was reported today railway unions would be given satisfactory working agreements so the union organization could be depended on to throw its utmost effort behind all war work with which it came in contact.

General and division officers, whose salaries range above $3,000 annually, are not expected to be counted in on the wage boost, an official said. But the increase will affect practically every branch of the National railway employee as well as dock and ship hands of lines where were taken over by Director General McAdoo with the rail lines connecting.

JUNE FIFTH SERVICE DAY FOR AMERICA

Washington, March 29.—American history will probably record June 5 as "Service Day"—upon which the men of this country responded to the call of the selective draft.

The Provost Marshal General is planning to hold the second draft registration—for men who have become 21 since last year—on June 5, first anniversary of the first registration. So long as the war lasts a similar registration will be held on that date. It is believed that 500,000 class one physically fit men will be added to America's defense columns annually by this program.

Congress is expected to complete the necessary legislation for the registration well before June 5.

With a five day mobilization of 95,000 drafted men starting today America will round the first year of the war next week with the record of having assembled over 700,000 men through the selective draft system.

BISHOP HENDERSON PLANS HELPFUL HOURS AT BAY VIEW ASSEMBLY

Bishop Theodore S. Henderson of the M. E. conference and his staff of special workers will have charge this year of the Bay View Assembly programs with its conferences and schools. For months these men have been working on the programs and without doubt for the season of 1918 one of the finest programs that has ever been prepared will be ready for those who attend.

The assembly will last for forty days instead of for the usual thirty day period and the program will be featured by such eminent speakers as Bryan, Taft, Private Peat, Dr. Cium and by music by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Dixie Singers and others of wide repute.

It is probable that Ypsilanti will be well represented there as usual.

LUDENDORFF GAMBLE HAS DULL OUTLOOK

No Reason Today to Believe That Quartermaster General Will Win

ALL EFFORTS TO DRAW OUT ALLIES HAVE FAILED

Reserves May Soon Be Able To Strike a Powerful Blow Where They Please

London, March 29.—There is no reason yet to believe that quartermaster General Ludendorff has increased his prospects of winning the great political gamble—which is the real character of the German super-offensive.

Every effort thus far made to draw in the Allies' reserves has failed. Meanwhile, the German line has been compelled to take an increasingly precarious shape. Simultaneously, the German command has been forced to drain its own reserve past the point of highest effectiveness.

The time undoubtedly is approaching when the Allies reserves still intact, will be able to strike where they please.

HAVE INTERESTING AUTO TRIP HERE FROM THE SOUTH

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Hatch and children have arrived here from Florida where they spent the winter. Following is an interesting story of their experiences:

Motoring to Michigan

The practical impossibility of getting a car in which to ship our automobile home suggested the propriety of trying to get home on our own power. The general impression was that it is too early in the season to make such a trip, but the war situation makes necessary so many things out of the ordinary we decided to go, at least, as far as we could with our automobile and then meet the next issue when we confronted it. We left Seabrook about 8 o'clock in the morning of March 9 and drove to Jacksonville. Here we had the pleasure of having two of our Michigan boys who are at Camp Johnson take supper with us. These boys are Nat Hopkins and Harry Hubbard. They comprise a congenial companionship in the ordnance division and the firm name locally, between themselves, is "Hop and Hub." We also attended the Florida state fair in the evening together. Then the following morning we drove out to Camp Johnson beautifully located on the banks of the St. John's river, and the boys showed us the camp. It was Sunday morning so we attended services at one of the Y huts. This was well filled at the regular services and many others were writing home in other parts of the building.

From Jacksonville we drove to Brunswick, Georgia, crossing the St. Mary's River on a little flat ferry boat from Florida into Georgia. Brunswick is coming back. It started in a generous way many years ago; built a hotel big enough for Chicago and still has it on its hands. War shipbuilding is helping it out now. Out a few miles is Jekyll Island owned by multimillionaires, mainly from New York with occasionally one from Chicago. The New Yorkers go to it in their yachts. You can only visit it by pass on a boat owned by these exclusives. The island is stocked with pheasants and other wild game. We left the big rambling Hotel Oglethorpe at Brunswick and drove to Savannah the following day, over pretty good roads.

After a few miles of crooked but picturesque shell road on the flat lands near the sea all automobiles over this route run onto a flat car and are hauled across the salt marshes and streams entering the sea in this section, to the higher lands beyond, a distance of some eight or ten miles. This was a somewhat novel experience. The road is rough and you have the impression that your car is in danger of tipping off the flat car. This danger is imaginary, we presume, rather than real.

On the way across Southern Georgia you see the "Old South" minus the slaves. The Negroes are of a fine type—the "colored gentleman" in manners and with industry. You see them with a heavy stick enlarged at one end hulling rice by pounding it in a hollow wooden bowl—then shaking it in a sieve, letting the wind winnow it.

CRUCIAL TIME IN HINDENBURG DRIVE IS NEAR

Today and Tomorrow Will Tell The Tale For Good or Bad, Officials Say

AUTHORITIES ARE NOT AT ALL GLOOMY

East Front Being Drawn From For Reserve Forces According to Indications

Washington, March 29.—Confidently and expectantly America looked out on the west front death grapple.

Today and tomorrow, army officials said, will tell the tale of good news for democracy on the "frontier of freedom" or will mark for them a gloomy chapter.

All the news before the authorities early today, however, cheered them. They foresaw that British legions, with some of the American victory reserve, would stand off the Germans, hammering at the gates of the western civilization.

News from Gen. Pershing indicated that the enemy has drained his reserve to the utmost and has now drawn upon the east front for further reinforcements. He is staking his all on the west line but the British, French and American strategic reserve apparently is now getting into the struggle rapidly. The German spike driven out at Montdidier is menaced. The gallant French pounding at the flank apparently are developing a strong counter offensive which will menace the Germans considerably. Meantime British defense is solidifying. The German has been slowed down and his vitality is being sapped by death and injury.

The extent to which American troops have participated and will participate is still a matter of secrecy. They are known to have had some part and it is assumed by high officers that perhaps 100,000 will have a share in smashing the foe.

EXPLOSION KILLS WOMAN, WRECKS POWDER PLANT

Swanton, Vt., March 29.—The International Explosives Co. plant is in ruins today and one woman is dead, the result of three explosions last night. Two other women were fatally injured.

The detonations rocked the village and shattered windows, set a bridge on fire and crippled telephone service.

It was reported the first explosion occurred at a table where several young girls were working on primers. One of these primers, accidentally discharged, set off the others.

Two men employees crawled into a shed near the main building raised a trap door and lowered 500 pounds of fulminate of mercury into a water flume below, thus preventing a threatened catastrophe. The International Explosives Co. was making primers for the Allies.

GERMAN FRONT IS IN DANGEROUS FORM

Difficulty in Holding Unwieldy Front May Force German Retreat

Counter Drive Against German Onset is Now Rapidly Developing

DAY OR TWO NEEDED FOR ALL PREPARATION

Despite German Gains Situation is Regarded as Favorable to Allies

Washington, March 29.—The great allied counter drive against the German onset is now developing, high American army officers declared today.

It may take a day or more for the full movement to reveal itself, it was added, but the troop dispositions have been made and the great army of maneuver is taking up its all important task.

Despite some gains made by the Germans yesterday, the situation this morning was regarded as favorable by military men here. The German advance is near a standstill, although further violent efforts to break thru the Allies' line are to be expected.

Army men say that now is the psychological moment to strike—when the Germans, fatigued and checked—may be thrown back before they can bring up their big guns or strike a balance.

"The French attack which remained some ground yesterday," one expert said today, "is probably the first phase of the allied operations. The French hit at a point (along the Oise river near Noyon) where a rolling up movement could best be launched. It remains to be seen whether this is to be the Allied strategy."

"The German movement in the vicinity of Montdidier will be of no advantage to them if the Allies attack along the southern edge of the wedge. Rather, it will give the French a better opportunity to carry out a rolling up process."

"It is not impossible that General Foch will command the Allied army of maneuver. This does not mean, however, that General Foch would be made generalissimo, but that he would direct the movement of the battle reserve as an executive appointed by the Versailles council."

Army officials were greatly interested in the report that General Pershing had offered all of his available forces to Foch. It is within Pershing's power to make such an offer.

City Clerk

near it does not impress you as being affected particularly by the war. Its export trade, however, is materially affected. It is up the Savannah River from the sea about 40 miles. It has one feature—the idea of Governor Oglethorpe of having in practically every second or third street an open park. We have not seen this in any other city carried out in this way. It is to be regretted that more cities have not followed this plan especially in the southern cities where breathing spaces are so necessary, so large a part of the year.

From Savannah we drove to Augusta, Georgia. Here is a big cantonment so it is difficult to get accommodations at the hotel. In fact we found it difficult in many places on the road home to get hotel accommodations because of the congestion occasioned because of the proximity of cantonments. Out of Augusta, however, on the edge of the cantonment a new hotel is being completed called the Linwood. It overlooks the camp grounds and you are in the military atmosphere, naturally rising and retiring by the bugle calls just under your window. Over 35,000 troops are here in this camp and we drove thru it and thus had a chance to see all branches of the service in actual practice action. The ground was dry and the cavalry made such clouds of dust that you could scarce see them at times as they went over the hills in their various maneuvers. The boys were going out of the trenches and going over the top making their bayonet charges upon straw men. The work appeared to be thorough and our boys from Ypsilanti at Camp Johnson and the boys here at Camp Hancock were looking in fine trim. Our Ypsilanti boys as well as others with whom we talked said the board was good and that they had gained in flesh.

We left Augusta, Georgia, crossing the bridge in the edge of town into the state of South Carolina, passing thru Aitkin where we stopped to have our high speed clutch tightened and reached Columbia, South Carolina, that evening. Good hotel accommodations could not be procured here. Another cantonment three miles out of town accounted for this. The cantonment near Columbia is for drafted men only while that at Augusta was for volunteers. 15,000 men are in the Columbia cantonment. They have accommodations for twice that number which they expect soon. The many cotton mills which we passed by on the road furnished considerable interest for most of the members of the family.

We started from Columbia in a typical March windy day. It blew the dust in clouds at times and in the direction we were going so that we had to drive slowly in order to see bad places in the road in time to avoid them. About 4½ miles out of Cheraw, South Carolina, we had our first and only mishap. We broke our right steering arm. Upon examination it was found that it contained an old crack or flaw about a third of the way thru. This precipitated our car into a furrow by the side of a newly ploughed cotton field and the wind blew the sand across this field so as to be all but blinding at times. A Ford came along in a few minutes and took most of the family into Cheraw where they procured a garage man's services. He came out, took off the part, took it into the city, had it welded, brot it back and replaced it and we drove the car in that evening and staid at one of those fine comfortable country inns which you find outside of the large cities. It was The Covington.

Not having a very long drive on our schedule we left Cheraw about 11 o'clock in the morning and arrived at Pinehurst, North Carolina, at 5 in the afternoon. After spending an hour mainly in trying to find a place to stay in any of the hotels we concluded the congestion too great and drove on a few miles to Southern Pines where we found good accommodations.

From Southern Pines we drove the following day thru Pinehurst to Greensboro, North Carolina. We stopped at Rockingham, North Carolina, and visited the Pee Dee Cotton Mills. Superintendent Stubbs very graciously showed us thru all the departments, illustrating how the raw cotton from the bale goes thru the processes of cleaning, dying and reducing from a mere film into a soft rope; then six of these ropes converging into one smaller and stronger rope; then five of these into a smaller and stronger, and finally into a strong cotton thread; then into cotton cloth. There were 412 looms working in this mill. Many of the operatives were women and the noise was a din. On the way into Greensboro we passed thru a "mountain white" section and over the best road since leaving Florida. The handicraft of the mountaineers, chiefly rugs and chairs, were seen frequently on the front porches of these mountain homes. There is a chair factory in one of the towns we passed thru. The factory sends the chairs out to these mountaineers and they weave in the seats and bring them back. They get 6½ cents apiece for putting in the bottoms and it is claimed they can weave in a bottom in a half hour's time. This would require 10 hours time for a rather small wage of $1.30. At Greensboro just as we were turning off the main street into a side street for the purpose of going back to the hotel from the garage we were nearly run into by an automobile from the rear. It was no one's fault but the driver of the car in the rear turned out to be a fellow member of the American Commission, a business man from High Point, North Carolina, "the Grand Rapids of the South" situated a few miles out of Greensboro and named because it makes so much furniture. Here at Greensboro it rained part of yesterday night and part of Sunday forenoon. As this was our day of rest anyhow it did not in the least interfere with our plans. So we spent St. Patrick's day in Greensboro. The florists had taken white carnations and placed the stems in water containing green coloring matter, the flowers had absorbed the color and turned green to observe the day. So many a green carnation was seen.

We passed out of North Carolina the following day into Virginia, thru Danville enroute to Lynchburg. Our next objective point being Staunton we were advised to leave the main highway at Clarion and cross over to Bedford City in order to miss a said impassable stretch of 40 miles between Lynchburg and Staunton. This we did and reached Bedford City in the early evening. The road was poorly marked if at all and the blue book did not chart this route so we had to inquire often of the mountaineers.

We left Bedford City at 8:30 in the morning and arrived at Staunton, the birthplace of President Wilson, at 1 in the evening. On the way we stopped to visit Natural Bridge which we drove over but could not see from the car. This is well worth a stop

N. FERRIS LAUDS WORKING RESERVE

BOYS CAN HELP SOLVE
PROBLEM THAT CONFRONTS
FARMER TODAY.

WOULD BE GIVEN A CHANCE

Farmer Should Do His Bit By Encouraging Boys—Will Be of Benefit to Entire Nation.

Former Governor Woodbridge N. Ferris is an enthusiastic backer of the U. S. Boys' Working Reserve. In straightforward terms he sets forth the benefits that will be derived by the entire country if city boys are given a chance to their bit on the farm. He cautions the boys that their enrollment in the Reserve means that they must be prepared to sacrifice amusement, hard, trying work.

In a letter to Charles A. Parcells, Director of the U. S. Boys' Working Reserves, he follows:

The United States Boys' Working Reserve can be made an exceedingly valuable organization. The boys will clearly understand that they are enlisting to do war service. They will have the same regard for comrades that soldiers have. They must retain the notion that they are not going out on the farms for a play day, but to render actual service and endure some hardships. The truth of the matter is, work on a farm, like fighting in the trenches, is a serious undertaking and requires real backbone. A soldier cannot expect to have the same pleasant surroundings in that he has in a steamheated house. Furthermore, he cannot expect his bill of fare is going to consist of dainties. On the farm the boys have plain, wholesome food.

Not Entirely a Boys Problem.

The problem of getting efficient service out of the boys doesn't fall entirely upon the boys. The parents of the boys should bear in mind that opportunity to work on farms is something really worth while for the development of their sons. Two or three months on a farm will be worth a year of ordinary school training from the standpoint of developing manhood. The most important influences in a boy's education were gained on the farm. It was there that I learned to get up in the morning whether I wanted to or not. It was there that I learned to do many kinds of work that I did not like. It was there, too, that I learned to get joy out of homely duties.

Fathers and Mothers Can Help.

It is the fathers and mothers of these reserve boys can brace themselves to the realization that their boys are contributing to the saving of civilization. That they are actually helping to win the war, they will exercise that common sense which is absolutely necessary to success in any undertaking. These parents should stand back of the boys and insist that they meet sacrifices and hardships with the same delight that an Arctic explorer does his work. The boys should not only spend their days on the farm, but their nights as well. They should become thoroughly initiated in all the kinds of life that belong to the farm.

A Farmers Duty.

"It is true that farmers have a duty to perform, but the mysteries of the farm are comparatively few. Boys who have an inclination to really work, will in a very few days be able to render invaluable service to the farmer. Farmers are like other employers compelled to exercise patience, especially in strenuous times.

"What is needed in order to make the Boys' Reserve campaign a success is co-operation on the part of farmers, parents and boys.

A Great Opportunity.

"I consider this the greatest opportunity that has ever been offered to the boys of this country. Eliminate the factor of war, and the educational benefits that are to come from this campaign are worth to the future welfare of this country the price of the bonded debt. This is no exaggeration.

"One year ago a very large number of our American people did not quite realize what this world war means. Today the American people are awake. Even the boys and girls are awake. Give them a chance to do their bit."

(Signed) WOODBRIDGE N. FERRIS.

The Battle Cry of Feed 'Em.
(U. S. Boys' Working Reserve Song of Freedom.)

Yes, we'll rally round the farm, boys,
We'll rally once again,
Shouting the battle cry of Feed 'Em,
We've got the ships and money
And the best of fighting men,
Shouting the battle cry of Feed 'Em.

The union forever, the beans and the corn,
Down with the fater—it's up the next morn—
While we rally round the plow, boys,
And take the hoe again,
Shouting the battle cry of Feed 'Em.

FRED EMERSON BROOKS.

At Grand Rapids ninety per cent of the High School boys have joined the United States Boys' Working Reserve and at Jackson 100 young men have signed up for service on the farm this summer.

Over two thousand boys of the per Peninsula will be available work in the Lower Peninsula as members of the Boys' Working Reserve.

DETROIT LOSES TAX SUIT AGAINST KRESGE

Detroit, March 29.—S. S. Kresge, five and ten cent millionaire, will not have to pay taxes to the city of Detroit on his $3,000,000 interest in the Kresge company, invested in 21 states other than Michigan.

The Michigan supreme court decided against the city, which assessed Kresge for the total value of his holdings, whether here or elsewhere. The Kresge corporation, whose five and ten cent stores are scattered throughout the country, has headquarters in Detroit. Only 20 percent of its holdings are in Michigan.

FARMERS WARNED AGAINST PEAR PSYLLA IN STATE

East Lansing, March 28.—Reports coming to the Michigan Agricultural college from fruit growers in the western part of the state indicate that the pear psylla, an insect pest which attacks pear trees, is on the increase.

"In fighting this insect the first step is to clean the orchard of trash and to scrape the loose bark from the trees to make them unattractive as hibernating places, and to make it easier to reach the insects with a spray. This spray must hit them in order to kill them. The efficiency of the control depends upon the spray used and upon the time of application. About the best spray is nicotine sulphate, using it at the strength of one pint of forty per cent nicotine sulphate in 100 gallons of water, adding about five pounds of soap to make the spray spread better. To get the best results from this spray it must be applied when the psylla are exposed and when it is cool enough so that they won't be too lively. It has been advised that the best time to spray them is on some warm day during the winter. During these days the adults come out and gather on the sunny side of the branches and twigs, but are generally not very active.

"Miscible oil has been employed with very good results and kerosene

Want Ordinance Changed

One other question of importance came up at Tuesday's meeting, that of changing the building ordinance with regards to moving frame buildings inside the fire zone from points outside this limit. Several moving operations have been held up because the ordinance as it stands does not permit the removal of any frame buildings inside the fire zone.

While this part of the ordinance was drafted to keep out certain undesirable houses from the restricted parts of the village, still, most of the trustees feel that this clause is a little too strict as it has meant keeping several good houses moved into the fire zone.

Trustees Papke and Ed to consider two required permits presented claiming that to issue would be directly against the ordinance pertaining thereto in this regard.

standing as it is at present, both trustees favoring of this part of the ordinance that legitimate moving within the fire zone will be up in the future. It was voted that the ordinance be viewed this clause with a wording in order.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work. People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, gripping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without gripping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. *10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

BENEFIT CONCERT FOR PLAYGROUNDS WELL RECEIVED

Wayne, Michigan, March 23.—The concert given in Hoops hall by the Ladies' Quartet from the Ypsilanti Normal college, Miss Grace Emery, pianist, Ypsilanti; Mr. Parre, violinist, and the school orchestra, was enjoyed by a large and enthusiastic audience.

The Quartet consisted of Mrs. Parsons and the Misses Margaret Denley, Kathleen Fitzgibbons and Louise Tavernor, from Ypsilanti. The voices in the quartet were extremely well blended. Miss Margaret Denley sang two groups of songs. Her voice is a rare contralto which she uses with splendid effect. Miss Kathleen Fitzgibbons' number was thoroughly enjoyed.

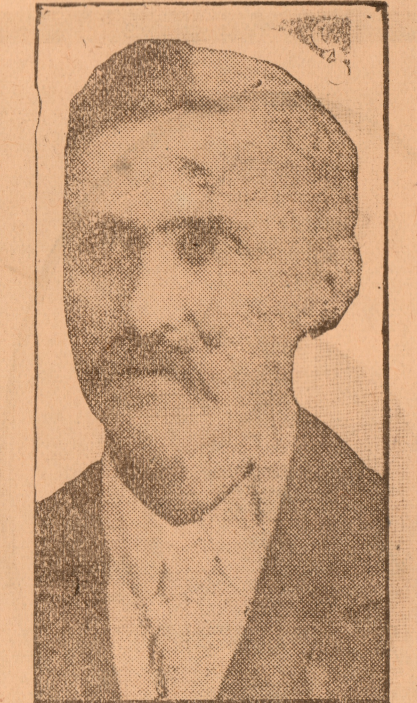

Vera Richardson, the accompanist of the conservatory faculty, added much to the songs by her charming accompaniments. The piano numbers by Miss Grace Emery were certainly a treat. She shows splendid technique combined with fine expression. Her last number, one of Liszt's Rhapsodies, was a triumph.

Mr. Parre, accompanied by Mrs. Parre, gave us a musical treat when they played the concerto by Berlioz. Mr. Parre was in splendid voice, his execution was masterly, his tone beautiful.

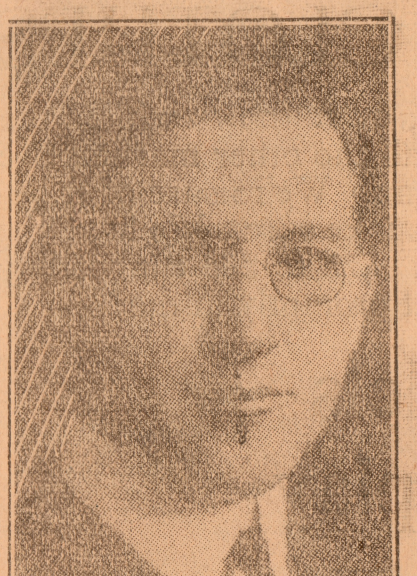

The school orchestra was a surprise to many. We are proud to have so good a musical organization in our school.

Prof. W. P. Bowen, physical director of the Normal college, gave a very interesting talk concerning playgrounds. After telling us of the rapid growth of the playground movement all over the country, calling it the leading educational movement of the age, he went on to give us some of the reasons why we should have playgrounds.

He said that while one family might be able to afford a playground for their children, another could not, and by each one contributing a little we had a community playground which was surely the more democratic way. The idea was not to teach the children to play, because normal children would play, but to direct their play, and bring the best in games from all over the world to them. He said we were just realizing the truth of that great educator Froebel's saying, that if we wished to truly educate a child we must direct his play as well as his work. If we do not appoint the play leader he will be self appointed, desirable or not, he will be the most aggressive one of a group of children. The play leader or supervisor teaches the children the best in games, teaches them fairness and honesty. He said some people thought that all of our money at this time should be spent for another purpose.

Citing Uncle Sam as an example he called our attention to the fact that he had bought up nearly all of the sport articles in the country to send to France for our soldier boys' recreation, thereby making it difficult to get the necessary equipment for games over here. When the United States entered this war the leaders of the playground movement all over the country met with experts from the playgrounds of France and England to decide what we should do about our playgrounds. France and England reported that juvenile crime had increased by leaps and bounds since they had closed their playgrounds, so it was decided that that was not a wise step. He said that we could feel that it was just as patriotic to look after the training, physically and morally, of the boys here who might be in this war in a few years as it was to look after our soldiers.

ALL SAFE AND WELL, WRITES YPSILANTI MAN

The following is an extract from a letter written by Sergeant Ward D. Ritchie, former Ypsilanti man, with the 107th Field Signal Battalion, now in France:

March 5th, 1918.

At last we have received the long looked for mail and to say that it was appreciated does not fully explain our appreciation. It seems years since we have heard from home.

I have put in an application for a transfer to a railroad battalion.

There are to be some changes soon but what they are I, of course, am unable to divulge.

We are very comfortable here. "Eats" are good; our place of habitation good and the bathing facilities, while a bit improvised are good, when it is taken into consideration where we are.

Don't worry about any of us for we are perfectly safe and well.

I hope the report did not reach Ypsilanti that our voyage was anything but safe. You will understand what I mean by this remark. I am taking a few notes and will be able to weave a good story when I get back home.

I must close now and get back to duties that are to count for Uncle Sam.

ACTION UPON WAR MEASURES IS HOPED FOR

Leaders Predict Lull In Partisan Dispute Permitting Senate Work

MILITARY TRAINING
ISSUE MAKES TROUBLE

Charges That Liberty Motor Is Not Suitable For All Planes Investigated

Washington, March 29.—With a lull expected today in the partisan dispute in the senate, action upon vital war measures was hoped for by the leaders.

Confronted with Lloyd-George's plea for reinforcements from the United States, the senate planned to dispose of the measure drafting all who have become 21 since the fifth of June 1917. This vitally affects the second draft, which, in view of Lloyd-George's appeal, may be hastened.

Senator New's universal military training amendment is the obstacle in the way of quick passage of the resolution. Debate on this may reopen for a time the discussion, but leaders will do everything possible to repress it.

Senator Chamberlain hopes for a vote today on the resolution.

The military affairs committee continued its investigation of Major General Wood's charges that the Liberty Motor is not suitable for all sorts of airplanes. The committee heard Commander Briggs, head of the British naval aviation service.

Maj. Gen. Franklin Bell also was to appear before the committee to give his impressions of conditions on the American and Allied fronts.

The committee is to issue a public statement today on the Liberty Motor, following secret testimony yesterday by General Squier and Col. E. A. Deeds.
